NWF Regional Airport Name Poll on VPS Facebook & Twitter

Approximately five years ago, VPS was renamed from Okaloosa Regional Airport to Northwest Florida Regional Airport in an attempt to clarify our location and identity to both local and out of state passengers. Please help us determine if the airport name continues to accurately depict our location or if you believe a different name would be more accurate.

The NWF Regional Airport wants your opinion on its name. Follow us on Facebook.com/flyvps or Twitter.com/flyvps and share your opinion. You will have 4 selections to chose from or leave a comment to let us know what you think.

###

Northwest Florida Regional Airport (VPS) is a joint-use facility established on Eglin AFB in 1957. The airport accommodates over 900,000 passengers annually on American Eagle, Delta Airlines, Continental / United Airlines, US Airways, and Vision Airlines.
