'Coffee with a Commissioner' to take place at local brew spot.

Crestview – Commissioner Nathan Boyles and Commissioner Graham Fountain would like to invite the public to their first joint 'Coffee with a Commissioner' Thursday, September 27th at 5:30 PM to discuss the November 6th sales tax referendum with the public.

The event will take place at Casbah Coffee Company; located at 196 W. Pine Avenue, in historic downtown Crestview. The November 6th referendum, if passed, would add a ½ cent sales tax to non-exempt purchases in Okaloosa County. The money would fund public safety, roads and storm water projects.

"As with our prior joint community events, Commissioner Boyles and I hope to have a lively and thought-provoking discussion with our fellow citizens and encourage all who can to join us" said Chairman Fountain.

"In keeping with my tradition for these events the drink tab will be on me. Please stop by and enjoy one of Casbah's excellent selections of coffee, beer and wine all while participating in a robust community discussion," said Commissioner Boyles

Media members, please consider sharing our Facebook live of the event in order to raise awareness about the half-cent sales tax and what it would mean for your readers, viewers and subscribers who are unable to make it to the event. The event will be hosted on the county Facebook page, @OkaloosaCounty.
